World's biggest rocket test due

The final proving of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Mississippi Test Facility will come about tomorrow when Boeing Co. will attempt to fire the world's largest booster rocket, the S-IC-T.

Designed as the first stage booster of the Saturn V/Apollo, mass shot rocket, the stage burns RP-1 kerosene and liquid oxygen at the rate of 15 tons per second and provides 7.5 million pounds of thrust, the equivalent of 160 million horse power.

When fully loaded with 195,000 gallons of kerosene and 100,000 gallons of liquid oxygen, the 145-foot tall by 38-foot diameter component weighs 4,700,000 pounds.

Tomorrow's firing of the test version of this component, the S-IC-T, will be a 15-second duration shot to test the sound only. This is the test version that has been successfully fired several times before in Huntsville, Ala.

The first five S-IC bird-to-orbit flights acceptance trials at MTF in the S-IC-4, now awaiting shipment at Michoud Assembly Facility, New Orleans. It will be placed in the stand as soon as all tests on the test version have been completed.

The test stand undergoing trial to 107 feet high and to the tallest structure in the area.

Expecting ignition around 3 p.m., the count down leading to the actual firing will be commenced long before that time.

Kerosene fueling is due to take place late today and events as they should happen thereafter will more or less follow this pattern:

T minus eight hours, application of major electrical power; T minus seven hours - calibration of telemetry; T minus six hours - verify completion of engine inspection and service operations; T minus four and one-half hours - tank liquid oxygen tank; T minus three hours - check liquid oxygen tanks for leaks; T minus two hours - adjust fuel levels, verify instruments; T minus one hour - continue readiness checks of stand and stage.

Activity increases during the final hour of countdown until at T minus 40 minutes igniters are armed and stage and engine purged with nitrogen; T minus 30 minutes - series of checks commence, including completion of telemetry, pre-flight calibration of instruments, liquid oxygen and kerosene fuel tank pressure checks, and communication mode on terminal countdown - this includes the placing in proper position of valves, switches, lights, controls, indicators, etc. Pumps are started and purged, boosters, recorders, etc., turned on.

T minus 20 minutes - all personnel evacuate test stand; T minus 15 minutes verify all support functions are on line; T minus 10 minutes - start director cooling water in main (this is flame back and water is pumped at rate of 300,000 gallons per minute); T minus five minutes - arm firing system, conduct final checking; T minus 90 seconds - give firing command - automatic sequence begins leading to ignition of metric firing.

In mid-March the test booster will be fired again, this time for 40 seconds.

Increasingly larger and heavier traffic cars and more involved mode construction of the bridge is necessary when weight limitations on the old bridge necessitated load restrictions on traffic. Accordingly, the railroad's south end, Company Directors allocated $4.9 million to the project in January 1965.

With 60 per cent of its structural length completed, the Louisville and Nashville railroad's new bridge over the Bay of St. Louis should hopefully be open to the first train by the end of July.

This was the third year's day from architect E. W. Whitehead, of Louisville and Nashville Consulting Engineers, Louisville, Ky., railroad engineer and official in charge.

It is said the 10,170 foot bridge, designed to carry the L & N's main line between Mobile and New Orleans, is the third longest of the railroad's 4,381 bridges and tunnels.

The old truss, built in 1878 and damaged many times by storm and fire, is to be dismantled as soon as the new span is opened.

But without major decision to day, construction personnel, by Brown and Root, Inc., Houston, Tex., prime contractor, all structural steel for the bridge has been fabricated and should arrive at the Bay about May 15. This will be for the swing span.

The bridge is made of 40-foot long sections with an outside diameter of 54 inches and a hollow core. When completed the bridge will have 168 beams spaced 40 feet apart alternating between three and four splices of each beam. The bridge piers will be anchored at the four piers having bents allowing it sit free on foundation piles at the third pile bent locations.

Piling for the bridge is made by Precaressed Concrete Products Co., Montevallo, La., and barged to the construction site. The piling is made in 16-foot sections with an outside diameter of 54 inches and a hollow core. When completed the bridge will have 168 beams spaced 40 feet apart alternating between three and four splices of each beam. The bridge piers will be anchored at the four piers having bents allowing it sit free on foundation piles at the third pile bent locations.

In addition, several homes were endangered. Davis said adding that the forest fire danger is high. He urged the public not to burn anything.

However, he expects more fires this weekend and crews from other counties have been called for standby assistance and all volunteer groups alerted.

Assisting the county fire-fighting crew Friday were the U.S. Forest Service, industry crew, volunteer fire departments, the Air Patrol, which is under contract with the state forestry commission; and, crews from Pearl River and Stone Counties which were shifted to the County.

Davis said he had also shifted three crews from Bay Springs to Wiggins for assistance in northeast Mississippi. Local law enforcement officials also were asked to assist in patrolling.

Clean-up drive on, fishing pier off

Operation Clean-Up, being conducted by Bay St. Louis Jaycees under their civic project, got off to a good start Sunday with a force of volunteers manning boats on Beach Boulevard.

The City of Bay St. Louis provided a crew and mechanical equipment and the volunteers did the rest.

This Sunday the "gang" will start at Main and Beach and work their way towards Second Street.

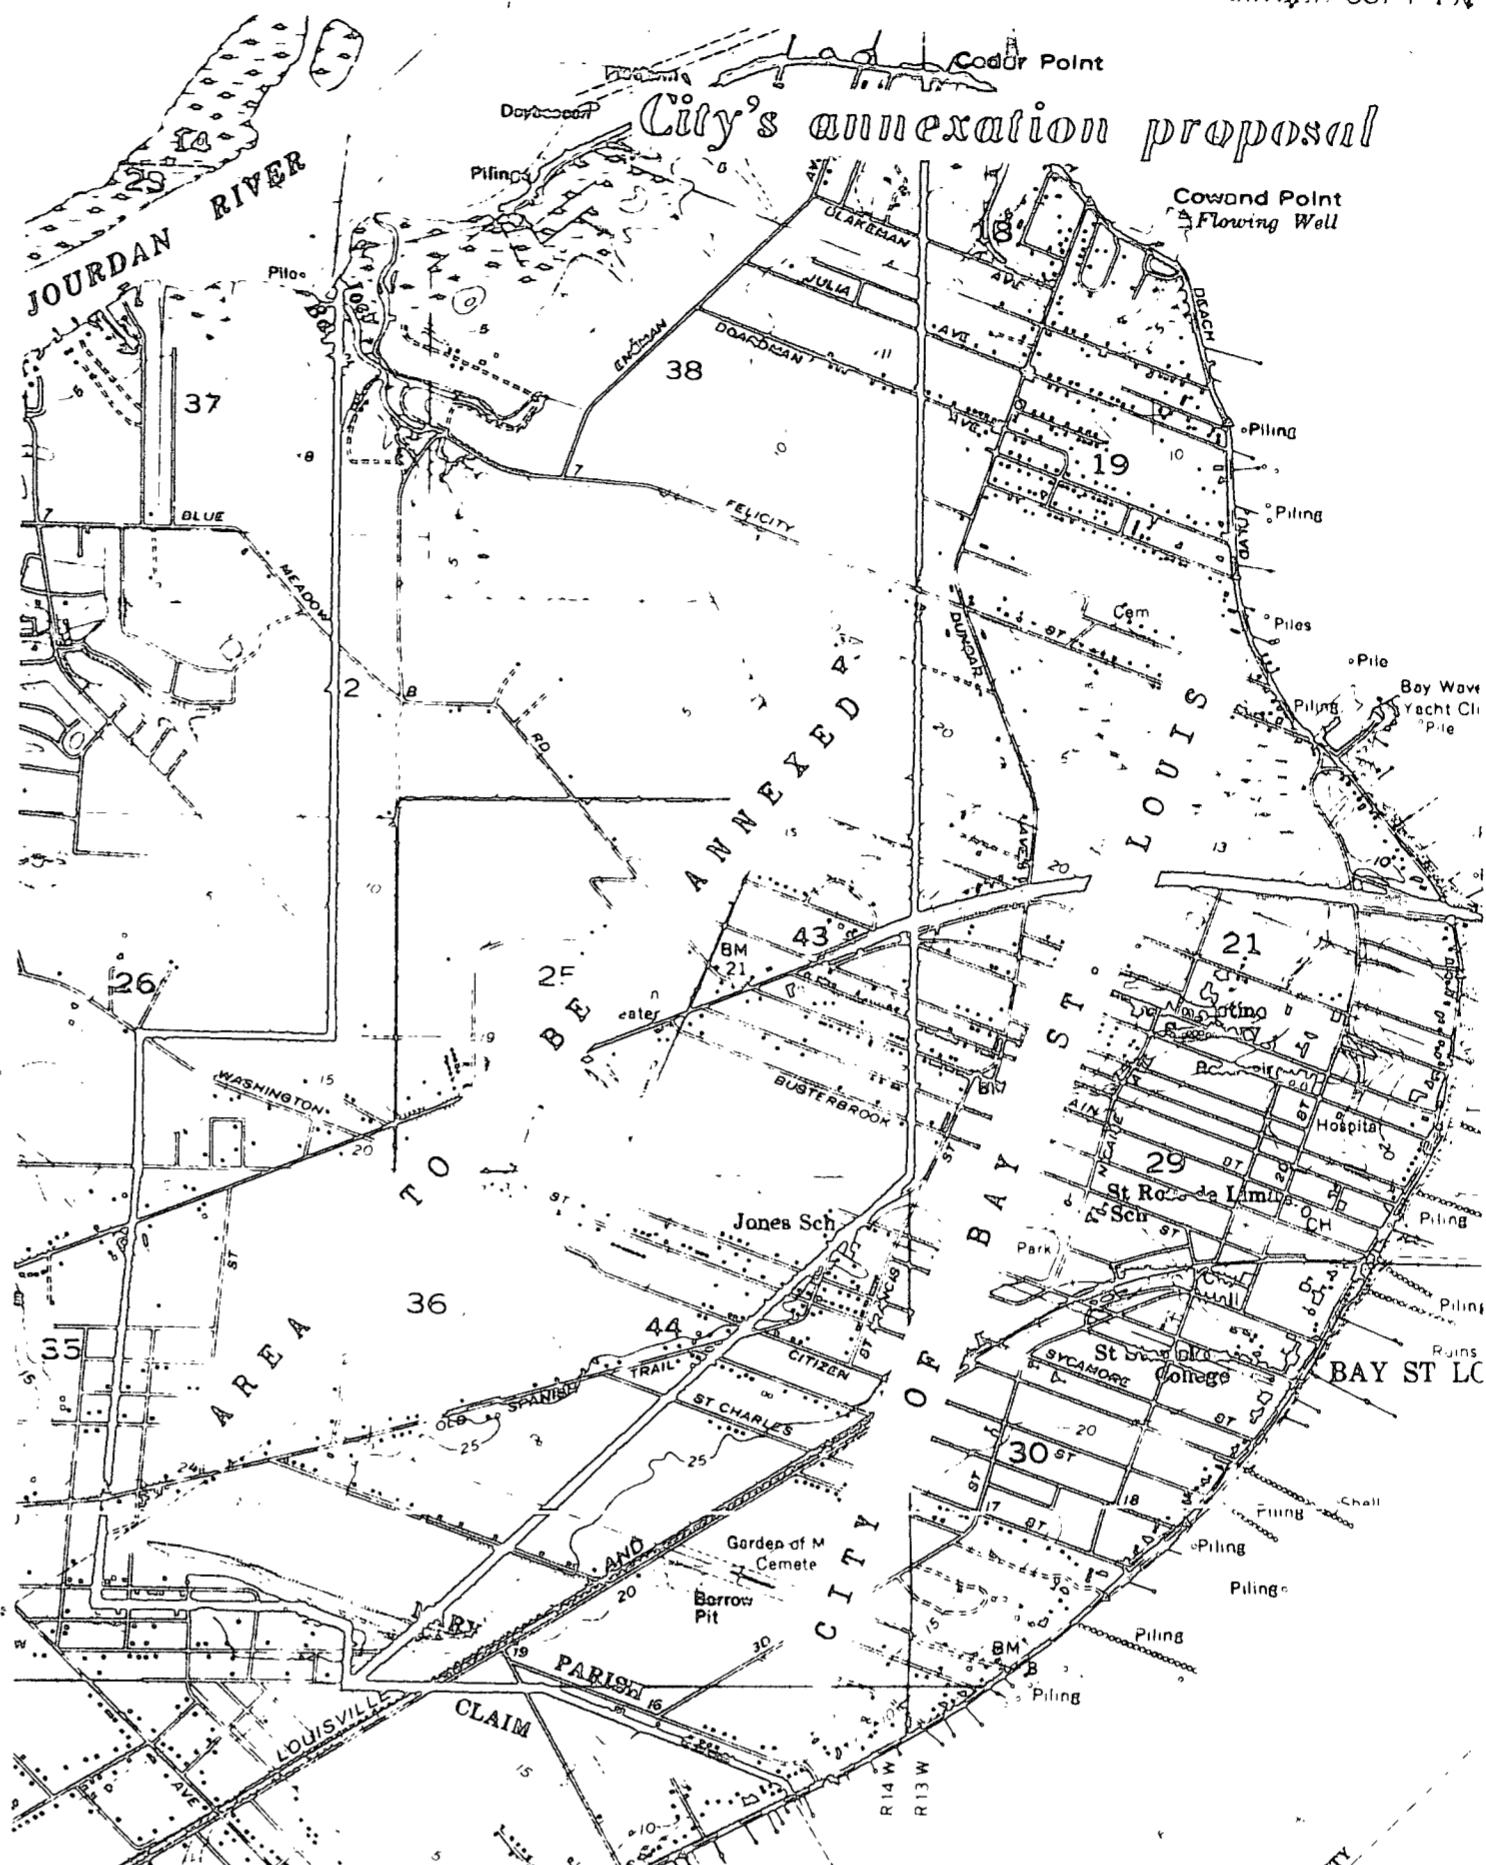

Progress will be discussed at the regular Joyce business meeting tonight in the Joyce Hall.

Michael D. Hanes, Joyce project chairman, has received a letter from William M. Kendall, president, Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company, urging down the idea that a portion of the old railroad tracks be left intact for use as a fishing wharf.

This is an important milestone in the history of our association and will contribute much to our future growth and progress, he said.

Part of the requirement for the Jaycees to use an incorporated association as a joint corporation required the city to submit a plan, which was submitted last November when the contract was increased to $150,000.

Longest pre-stressed concrete bridge in world, the new bridge over the Bay of St. Louis is structurally more than twice as long as the old bridge, but, is to be dismantled.

Bay to seek annexation approval by spring

Bay St. Louis took formal steps Wednesday to annex a vast tract to its northwest including the Jolmes Shopping Center and about a mile of heavily commercial property on U.S. 90 west.

Ordinance No. 163, adopted unanimously by City Commission Council, becomes effective April 1 and steps are being taken to secure court ratification.

Chancellor Frank Alexander will be asked to set the hearing in April, as soon as possible after the 30-day waiting period under Mississippi's annexation statutes.

As soon as the ordinance is confirmed, the city agrees to provide police and fire protection, garbage collection, mosquito fogging when necessary, maintain existing streets and continue to provide utilities, including gas, water and sewerage to that part of the area now receiving them.

Within a reasonable period, not to exceed five years, the city is to install gas, water and sewer lines as well as street lighting where necessary and economically feasible.

The annexation ordinance roughly doubles the size of Bay St. Louis. The expansion would move northwest from the southeast corner of the old Louisville and Nashville Railroad yard pit to along the Waveland line between Henderson and Bowling Streets and continue north, crossing U.S. 90 in the vicinity of the former Clarida Restaurant, intersection with Washington Road.

From there it would go about one-quarter of a mile west of Drinkwater Road, then north one-eighth mile west of Joe's Bayou Road and out to the Jourdan River.

Waveland last month annexed an area to the west of Bay St. Louis under a compromise agreement with the city. It was the first municipal corporation in the county in 62 years. Bay St. Louis has not had a municipal corporation since it was incorporated as Sholomborough in 1839.

City Hall sources said there appeared to be only minor opposition to the plan in the annexed area. One anticipated opponent, who had been girding for a

LIME NEEDS OF SOILS

The first plant food requirement in Mississippi is lime, according to O.O. Sturds, county agent. He said Monday that lime carrots will add lime and makes plant food nutrients more readily available. He recommended such be spread on the land as soon as possible in ratio of one acre, pH 6.0, to one ton lime, 150-200 pounds of lime applied at plowing time. Other requirements of lime are calcium and gypsum.

Base map cited as planners' 1st goal

The Long awaited study by the commission for the Mississippi Regional Planning Commission by March 15, 1967, Sunday, March 12. He will deliver the new pastor's message in Bay St. Louis that afternoon.

Spanning a period of three years, the study recommends a base map be prepared showing distribution of population and economics of the land use, transportation, community facilities, public utilities and so on.

In the second year, this activity is to be extended to include studies of land use and the various other components. Such is to be done entirely with local staff or, as recommended by the study's authors, by a combination of consultants and local personnel.

In the third year, the report recommends the commission develop a controlled study of local ordinances concerning area development. This would deal with sub-division, construction and acceptance, zoning and the like. Once this is complete then an effort should be made to establish a coordination system in conjunction with the various local authorities. Along with the coordination should come a system whereby they render technical assistance to the various local authorities involved, the report says.

On March 15 the commission's programming and new recommendations is to meet in state capitals the next day. Such is to be presented to the various boards of supervisors and police juries.

Just Dickson, director, is immediately recommending making application to the Department of Housing and Urban Development for further grants. This is to insure continuity in the commission's program.

Reporting on the third year's geography division, Dickson said yesterday he was to receive the first delivery of prints that day and the balance by March 15. The boards of supervisors and police juries will be given a complete set of prints, enlargements and an index. Dickson said.

ACSD diversion sign-up date extended

Arrests last week apparently solved three auto theft cases, one dating back to last June, and two juveniles await Youth Court hearing on break-in and burglary charges.

Two Bay St. Louis men, Donald Marquard, Jr. and David Marquard were arrested by Sheriff Sylvan Lester and Chief Deputy, Eddie Depres last Wednesday. The officers were investigating an automobile found bound by Bayou Le Croix Road by deputies Jimmy Lester and Grover Bennett, when the Marquards appeared on the scene.

The car, a 1965 Chevrolet Super Sport had been reported stolen from in front of the Sun Theater on Jan. 28, by the owner, Martin L. Richardson.

The vehicle had been stripped of every movable part but the engine.

Two tires, 145-80 on being from the tire store were found in possession of the pair.

They were jailed until released on bond after being bound over to the grand jury, in court of J.P.

Nelson Lester on Friday.

Henry Trick Bell, Bay St. Louis, Negro, was arrested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in California in January and charged with the theft of a Dodge Dart belonging to Mrs. Ronald Mount. It was taken from the parking area at Fisher Drug, where she is employed, on Sept. 29, 1966. Bush has a record of auto thefts, having been released from the penitentiary in Feb. 1966, after serving time on a similar charge.

Milton Ray Miller, was picked up in Jasper, Tex., after wrecking a 1964 Dodge Dart which he had stolen from the Hertz Agency on West Main last June, and had failed to return.

The juvenile, Harrison, La., youth, was arrested in Ocean Springs at 9:45 a.m. Friday driving a stolen car. Myrtle Johnson of Lakeshore. Both are in hospital at Bay St. Louis.

Every Friday night O'Toole's Driftin' Music Band play the new and latest in country and western music. New members of O'Toole's Band are Bud and Jenny Lou Wallace, The Country Playmates.

This bus band and soloists are about the best seen and heard in these parts for some time. They know just about any song you want to hear and graciously answer all requests.

The Saturday before Mardi Gras a dance in the Annunciation School gym was a big success. Music was furnished by O'Toole's Band and long time club favorites Bobby and Johnny Cartwright sang. The Cartwrights are old Lakeshore favorites as they appeared in Town and Country for many months. The Mardi Gras King and Queen were chosen by draw as was the court.

Larry Lester came over from Fort Myers, Fla. last weekend to make his National Guard meeting and visit his parents, August and Myrtle Lester.

Congratulations to Melvin and Myrtle McCardie who are proud grandparents. Their daughter, Melva Diane Austin, presented them with a lovely granddaughter born last Friday weighing in at seven pounds 13 ounces and one and one-half inches long. The proud papa is James Austin.

Rev. James Hartley and all others who like to dance to good rock and roll music to come to St. John's Parish Hall this coming Saturday night. Dance-in in one dollar per person and food and soft drinks will be available. Adult charges will be in accordance.

Love and happy 16th birthday wishes to Warren Garcia who celebrated last week.

Lakeshore's newest residents are Bud and Jenny Lou Wallace, talented country and western music musicians and singers. Their children are also talented and all can play music.

Guardia Hall fire recalls Bay past

A segment of Bay St. Louis history has come to the fore as the result of an early morning fire last Wednesday which levelled Guardia Hall at Northwestern State College, Natchitoches, La. The hall, a college landmark, housed an invaluable museum and library.

The historical flashback starts immediately before the battle of New Orleans in the War of 1812, when the British had established a base on Ship Island from which they intended to launch the attack.

A British scouting party, in search of a route through the marshes to the back door of the city, landed on Cat Island and captured its only summer resident, John Curran. After discovering he was a citizen, men who knew all the bayous in the area the scouts took Curran back to Ship Island for interrogation. Curran refused to cooperate, was thrown in jail and the British called without the benefit of his military rank at the bottom.

After the Army they landed

Christmas snapshot wins prize

A Christmas visit to Bay St. Louis by Roger Mingo and his mother, Mrs. Eugene Mingo, both of Pascagoula, to long time family friends, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Ruhr of 117 Main St., had an unexpected ending this month.

Mingo, an amateur photographer, took a snapshot of one of his host's family of seven children, Leigh Ann, 10, just after she returned home from church.

After enlarging and mounting the snapshot, Mingo entered the finished product in the Pascagoula Interact Fair. From more than 300 entries the Mingo portrait was selected as one of the best pictures in the show.

Mike Haas, president of the Association, urged all Southerners to support the anniversary year. Membership goal is 10,000 and a local goal of 67 is the challenging mark.

With all post members saluting their commander-in-chief, "Comrade Foyard places except this award and handshake for an outstanding job. We present it with the hope you will have many more years of service to add to your distinguished record."

In making the Poppy Day awards, Van Foyard told parents of the students being honored that the certificates were in recognition of the spirit of dedicated service rendered by the children. He said the parents could feel a "glow of pride" in the unselfish and devoted job their children had done.

CHURCH FAIR

Father Bernard McDonald, pastor St. John's Church, Lake Shore, has announced the annual church fair on June 10 and 11.

Travel difficult, routes few, old road map shows

Motorists traveling from New Orleans to Pass Christian in 1924 followed Highway 12 as far as Chet Monteau, took a ferry over Lake Pontchartrain to North Shore, picked up the highway again through Slidell only to find their way hampered by another ferry crossing the Pearl River at Logtown.

Once over this natural barrier their way lay through Kiln and Dolinde before reaching the Pans.

Pass Christian was also the best place of origination for northward travel in Hancock County.

Boatrocking through Da-lisle, the road ran northwest to Standard and on to Poplarville. A second class road did meander from Kiln to Picayune but no direct route was open from Kiln to the coast road.

Travel to Bay St. Louis was from an offshoot highway from Logtown or by ferry from Pass.

All this information is contained in the Standard Oil Co.'s first road map of the state re-located to commemorate the opening of their newest Chevron service station in Jackson. It is built on the site of the company's first "drive-in" type station opened July 4, 1915.

In 1924, according to an advertisement in the lower corner of the map, Standard Oil's products were being marketed under the trade name of Crown Gasoline.

A portion of their old slogan says, "Keep going till you find a Crown." As the major portion South Mississippi white Forest captured No. 3 slot in girls' competition.

The tournament marked the close of the basketball season for Bay High, the Tigers winding up with the best record of any Bay High team in recent memory, 12 wins and 3 losses, and they were the District 8 Class AA champions for the first time in 11 years.

The Tigerettes ended their season with a 23-6 record and won second spot in district girls' competition.

Russell lifts Junior Olympics

Blalock captured third place trophy in the 165-pound class with a total of 545 pounds.

Russell scored a press lift of 215 pounds, scratch 190, clean and jerk 240. Blalock recorded a press of 180, scratch 155, clean and jerk 210.

Doc Rhodes' record of five years' standing was broken during the meet. No longer a senior and having won virtually every trophy offered in the power lifting division in his weight class, Rhodes could not enter the meet but he will return national competition this summer.

Junior Hawks

lose plumes to Brandon

Hancock North Central's young Hawks, District 8 Class A champions, were eliminated from the South Mississippi tournament at Northwest Jones last Thursday. They were defending state champs.

The Hawks lost to Brandon, 51-41, with Lando Ledner scoring 14 points in the losing effort.

North Central got off to a 13-10 lead going into the second stanza but Brandon led, 27-26, at halftime and increased the margin to 34-31 at the end of the third period.

Coach Roland Ledner's Hawks, with no seniors ahead this year, are expected to go for next season.

The other District 8 Class A entry, Notre Dame of Biloxi, lost to Raymond, 74-64, in overtime. The Silverskins lost a five-point lead with 45 seconds left in the game and lost their shooting eyes in the overtime period.

WARNING SIGNAL

Civil Defense officials this week said their new warning signals are, attack warning, three to five minute wailing tone on sirens or short blasts on horns; alert signal, three to five minute steady tone on sirens or other devices.

VCI victory advances girls to semi-finals

Vicksburg's James Tigerettes advanced to the semi-finals of the South Mississippi Athletic Conference Tournament when they defeated St. Rose 11-10, 34-20, Saturday at Pago Christian.

The semi-finals are slated for this Saturday at Beaumont.

In girls' competition, Pascagoula met Poco Christian and James Tigerettes. Beaumont, which will meet in the finals for the championship while losers will play for third place in a consolation game.

The James Tigers were led by Coach Carl Christian, 62-45, although Harry Peeler led for 26 points. Robert Williams, 12; Cleo Smith, 12; and Ernest Taylor, 8. Harold Bell had 10 rebounds.

Coach Wilmer Seymour did his best to relax his Tigers before Thursday's game but the 17 and 18-year-old lads, with no experience in state competition, were unversed. Encouraged by the huge crowd, some of the lads couldn't unwind until the game was over.

Mike (Co-Go) Necessie, acclaimed by coaches and writers throughout the state as Mississippi's best prep basketball player, was held to 3 points in the first period and only 1 in the second. However, he wound up the game's leading scorer with 30 points.

In the first half, Jackson Central hit upon a successful plan of defense by alternating Connie Emily and Terry Jenkins, man-to-man, on Necessie. They also kept three men between Mike and the goal, forcing him to shoot from outside.

Quarter scores:

SH 7 2 11 23 - 49

JC 17 15 19 17 - 62

Jackson Central, with more than double the number of contestants as Bay High, had the advantage of experience and poise gained in last year's state tournament.

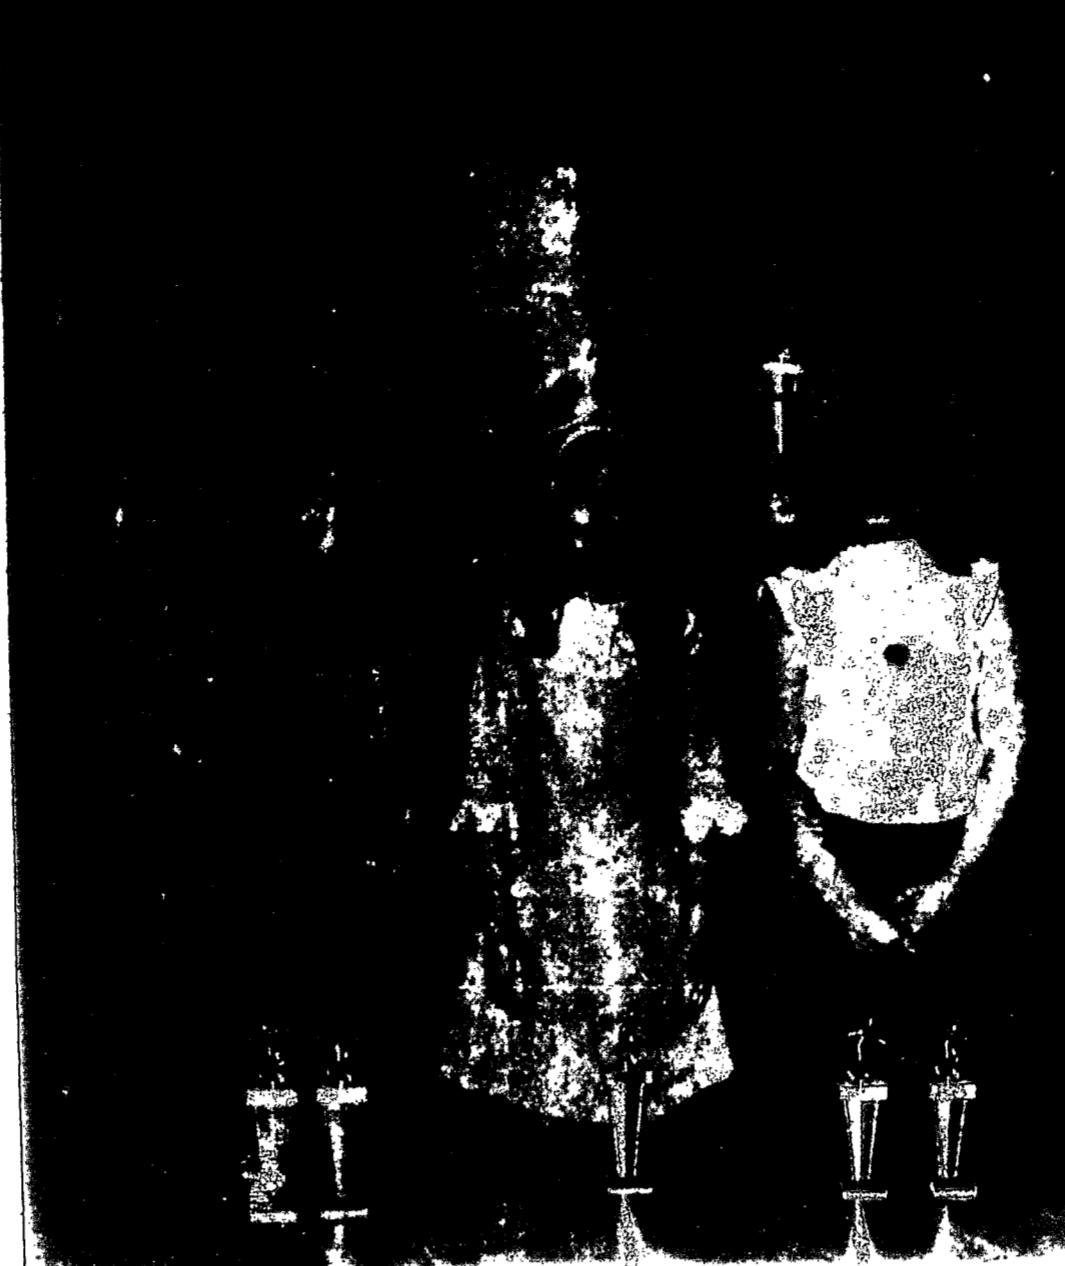

Billy Sills' Tigerettes also suffered from cargo flight but managed to hold their own in the second half after a three-point second quarter against Forest High. Ann Portman put in a total of 20 points, Martha Compton, 15, and Mary Ann Smith, 8. Sally Portnoy and Shirley Dean played a while of game indecisively in the second half after they limbered up.

High scorers in the game was Marlene Mathews who hit 28 for Forest.

Quarter scores:

SH 10 6 11 11 - 38

JC 14 12 11 12 - 49

Programmed farming profits Stockstill

In the long-drawn-out area of south Mississippi, many livestock farmers can't see the grass for the trees.

Not so with Virgil Stockstill and his wife who have a 320-acre woodland-livestock farm in Hancock County, northeast of Bay St. Louis.

The Stockstills, co-operators with the Hancock County Soil Conservation District, have 27 acres of bermudagrass and 230 acres of well-managed long-leaf and short-leaf pine.

Stockstill is a "part-time" farmer, so Mrs. Stockstill spends much of her time looking after the livestock. The Stockstills keep 200 breed cows. Their management system consists of grazing the bermudagrass pasture during the growing season, using the woodlands to supply additional forage as needed.

Old record

met by Bay

this year

by ...
Eddie Engbom

Bay High's Tigers lost their way on the road to the state basketball championship but coach Wimpy Seymour's lads can point with pride to the fact they are the first Bay High team in 11 years to win the District 8 Class AA championship.

Also it was the first time in history that four Gulf Coast Conference teams represented District 8 in the Class AA South Mississippi Championship Tournament, the Tigers placing No. 1 and the Tigerettes No. 2 in their respective divisions in the district tourney. Stone High's girls were No. 1 and the boys No. 2.

Over confidence cited factor

Tigerette coach Billy Sills, at a press conference in Bay High last week, said what we think was one of the key factors in the Tigers' defeat in the South tournament. "The last thing I would want going into an important tournament is a winning streak," Billy commented. Seymour's lads were riding a wave of 20 consecutive victories.

Whatever it was, the Tigers were virtually bent over and stiff from the pressure at Gulfport in the first half of their first game. In addition, Central's men were taller and they alternated gunning Mike (Co-Go) Necessie, and always managed to keep three men between him and the goal.

With plenty of experience in last year's state tournaments, Central's team was relaxed and quickly took advantage of the situation. While holding Necessie to only 6 points in the first half, they ran up a total of 32 against 9 for Bay High, a lead that would be almost impossible for any team to overcome.

On the slate for next season

Seymour will lose virtually his whole team through graduation this year but keep your eyes on the Tigerettes next season. Sills didn't have a single senior on the squad and all will be back with the experience gained in the district and South Mississippi tournaments.

And watch for Roland Ledner's Hawks next season. They won the District Class A championship also without a senior with the exception of Ronnie Saucer who only played a few games at the end of the season. This team could easily capture another state championship for North Central next year.

Classifications under fire

So with the high school basketball season just about at an end it's time to take a good look at the state's system of classifying schools. The top class is AA resulting in some schools with less than 400 students competing with more than 1,600.

At a recent meeting at Wiggins members of District 8 voted unanimously to urge reclassification of the larger schools into an AAA group. This action could be taken by the Mississippi High School Athletic Assn. at its next meeting. Or at least it should be given consideration. Our sister state, Louisiana, has already rectified the situation by going up an AAAA classification and action on this in Mississippi seems long past due.

Game of year sought

A movement is under way that could result in the most sensational basketball game ever staged on the Gulf Coast. It would be between the District 8 champions of 1942 and the current 1957 champs. The '42 team consisted of such hot players as Leo Seal, Jr., now president of the Hancock Bank chain, C. C. McDonald, Jr., Lando Goldman, who changed his name to Lando Adams and is now an Evangelist preacher with Billy Graham, and other notables.

LADNER LEADS USM

Berlin Ladner, former Hancock North Central all-star basketball player, led the scoring with 18 points last Thursday at Hattiesburg as the University of Southern Mississippi smothered Milligan, 102-67. Ladner hit 7 field goals and connected on 4 out of 6 free throws. The Southerners are now 13-8 for the season.

USM WINS FINAL

Southern Mississippi won its final game of the season at Hattiesburg Monday night defeating Louisiana Tech, 89-81, in overtime. After being deadlocked, 77-77, the Southerners scored 12 points in overtime, Berlin Ladner getting six of them. They wound up with a 16-9 won-loss record.
